HEALTH & SAFETY

The Hamilton Spectator, a division of Metroland Media Group Ltd., is committed to your health and safety on show site. It is the Company's policy that the promotion of a safe and healthy workplace is an essential responsibility and to that end the Company is committed to making every reasonable effort to provide a healthy and safe work environment. As such, Exhibitors must also dedicate him/herself to the continuing objective of reducing the risk of accident and injury through the elimination of unsafe working conditions and practices.

Any chemical product that is used in the installation, dismantle or operation of your exhibit space must be safe for all. Material Safety Data Sheets must be visible when using, displaying or storing such materials. The use of protective gear is mandatory to ensure your safety. Please respect these regulations, as we are all responsible for show floor safety.

Certain areas of an exhibit floor may be defined by law as a construction zone. As such, protective eye, headgear and harness (as necessary) are strongly recommended in most cases and required in others. Safety shoes are mandatory on the show floor at all times. Keep your work area clean and tidy. Un-secured wires, trip hazards and sharp edges are everyone's concerns. Please also note that children are not permitted on the show floor during set up and tear down.

PLEASE NOTE: Occupational Health & Safety Representatives may be on site to inspect. If approached by an Occupational Health and Safety Representative, do not attempt to negotiate a difference of opinion – proceed to the Show Office and contact Show Management.

OHSA Requirements

In accordance with the Occupational Health & Safety Act, The Hamilton Spectator requires that all reasonable steps and precautions are taken to protect the health and ensure the safety of all persons involved in the production of its shows. Preventing injury is a key objective and accordingly, every possible measure must be taken to provide a safe, healthy work environment. To succeed, these safety initiatives require that every exhibitor assumes responsibility for helping meet this objective. Exhibitors must therefore, carefully read the applicable sections of the Occupational Health & Safety Act, in order to fully understand their responsibilities as they apply to themselves and their workers while at the show, including all activities within their own booth areas. For more information on the Act, visit the Health & Safety at www.labour.gov.on.ca

All persons involved in the move-in/move-out process (ie. set-up and tear-down of a show) must be properly dressed and equipped to work safely in specific areas of the show deemed by the Act, or an on-site Safety Inspector, as an industrial environment which may involve the use of heavy equipment (forklifts, etc.) as well as overhead activities (hanging signs, lights, etc.). These areas, including areas in and around booths, may be marked off with safety cones or caution tape. Only persons wearing hardhats and safety shoes will be permitted into these areas until all work is completed. Working in open-toed shoes, bare feet etc. is strictly forbidden on the show floor. Any individual wearing inappropriate footwear will be prevented from entering the show floor.

Exhibitors are responsible for the health and safety of all employees and other persons on the show floor who are directly or indirectly under their supervision and is responsible to inform/contact all persons you will be hiring (ie. your staff and any outside contractors hired to set up your booth, bring in your product, or anyone required to be on the show floor during move-in and out), that they must wear safety shoes, as well as any other necessary protective equipment, to keep them safe from injury.
